

FIELD 39

BY SKLO

Small cylinders of handblown glass are grouped to create geometric table surfaces. The cylinders nest upside down into twin floating plates of perforated metal. Thin legs repeat the cylindrical motif and integrate into the geometric pattern of the glass. The individual pieces of glass have been carefully spaced to create an eminently functional tabletop surface, yet still read as separate. The result is mesmerizing and graceful.

All glass dimensions are approximate – handblown glass dimensions vary by nature and intent
